Halton Place, a 200 acre country estate and equestrian facility in Halton Hills, Ontario, is putting the finishing touches on their 2004 event of the year. The Oktoberfest Country Classic National Equestrian Competition will take place from September 30th to October 3rd, 2004.

The event, a four day hunter and jumper competition, will welcome riders from across the province and will feature a $20,000 Grand Prix class, authentic Oktoberfest music and beer garden, demonstrations for the whole family, a free children's village and much more.

Entrance to the show grounds is $5 per person and $10 per family. In addition, various fundraising efforts during the competition will benefit the Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills. Updates and details are available at www.haltonplace.com.

"Equestrian competitions are very exciting events," says competition manager, Megan Krueger. "Halton Place has international sporting event potential. We have been home to the Oktoberfest Country Classic for nearly ten years and this year promises to be the best yet."
